Communication preferences

It's important we keep in touch with our members so you know exactly what we're talking to your employer about – especially the things that may impact you. But first, we need to know if you're happy to receive updates from us. We'll never bombard you with emails, calls or texts. And we'll never try and sell you products or services. Please note, there are some communications that are not optional as an Accord member, for example important information about your membership and employment.

Please put an ✓ in the boxes below to tell us the type of communications you're happy to receive and how you'd like to receive them. You'll be opted out of any boxes you leave blank*:

Please complete data exchange & direct debit mandate overleaf

Data exchange

We're legally required to keep your information up to date. You can amend your details online via our website. If you agree to the data exchange, your employer will notify us instead.

This information is standard direct debit mandate information.

The information you have provided will be retained on Accord's membership database. In accordance with Accord's Privacy Policy (available on: www.accord-myunion.org) we may require to exchange data between Accord and your employer (please note, we don't currently conduct data exchanges with all employers) for the purposes of ensuring our membership database is kept up to date of any changes. Do you agree to your details from our membership database being included in data exchanges between Accord and your employer? If you agree, changes to some of your employment information like hours, location, job title will be automatically updated. But it remains your responsibility to cancel your union membership with us direct – this can't be done by agreeing to the data exchange. If you do not agree, it is your responsibility to update Accord of any changes to your employment details. If you are content for us to obtain this information from your employer, please tick here.
